

Notes on contributors

Louis Everuss is a Research Fellow, Lecturer and Coordinator at the Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence in the Justice and Society Academic Unit at University of South Australia. His research interests are located in the sociological study of mobilities, sovereignty, migration, and borders.

Bolor Jamiyandagva was a postgraduate student at The University of Melbourne.

Sabri Kiçmari is a professor of sociology at the University of Prishtina, Kosovo. Previously he has been a Charge d'Affaires of the Republic of Kosovo in Austria; Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to Austria, Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to Australia; Non-Resident Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to New Zealand, Non-Resident Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to Vanuatu, and Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to Japan.

April Kim was a postgraduate student at The University of Melbourne.

Yujie Li was a postgraduate student at The University of Melbourne.

Alycia Millar is a graduate of the University of South Australia with research interests in digital border securitisation and sovereignty.

Grace Villamor is a human geographer at the New Zealand Institute for Bioeconomy Science. She specialises in understanding robust mechanisms for resilient landscapes. Her research interest is in socio-techno-ecological systems interactions through mixed-methods approaches.

Xiwen (Thea) Wang obtained her Ph.D. in European Studies from the National Centre for Research on Europe at the University of Canterbury. Her research interests encompass a diverse range of topics, including EU policies analysis, EU-China political and economic relations, EU-New Zealand relations, as well as European politics.