

Literature & Aesthetics

VOLUME 35 NUMBER 2 (2025)

Table of Contents

Editor's Introduction Carole M. Cusack	i
In Which Year was G. I. Gurdjieff Born? Michael Benham	1
Thinking about the Gurdjieffian Enneagram Phenomenologically: The Case of a Phenomenology of Relationship David Seamon	13
Gurdjieff and the Traditionalist/Perennialist Schools Joseph Azize	30
G. I. Gurdjieff, Trinitarian Master Cynthia Bourgeault	44
Spiritual Exercises in Novarodok Mussar and the Early Work Martin Zwick	59
Sex and Subtle Bodies in the Work and the Gnosis David G. Robertson	81
On What 'Esoteric' Could Mean in the Twenty-First Century Anthony Blake	96

The Prophet: A Play in Three Acts Stuart Holroyd	139
“I know thee not, old man”: An Esoteric View of Prince Hal’s Rejection Of Falstaff, and the Monarchy of Individual Evolution Richard J. Nierenberg	190
The Aesthetics of The Empty Space in the Theatre: Exploring the Writing and Theatrical Work of Peter Brook Catharine Dada	208
Karnak and the Spirit of Performance Jeremy Johnson	221
An Esoteric Reading of The Great Gatsby : F. Scott Fitzgerald’s Allegory of the Gurdjieff Work Jon Woodson	244
‘I make a new God’: Maurice Conchis and (traces of) G. I. Gurdjieff In John Fowle’s The Magus Steven J. Sutcliffe	274
Gurdjieff and the Angry Young Men: Stuart Holroyd, Colin Wilson and Waking Up in 1950s Britain Carole M. Cusack	293
Book Reviews	304